

forum interactive

From: Alison.Banks@CCOMPA.ac.uk
To: Joan.Masters@tideresearch.co.uk
Date: 5th November 2008
Subject: hello

Dear Joan

I'm sorry to load you with this but I just feel really angry. I haven't seen Paul properly to speak to for weeks. I went to a management team meeting this morning and saw him. He virtually ignored me when we arrived. Then when I made points during the discussion he immediately moved the subject to something else – he purposely ignored me and got others to ignore me too!! That's a meeting I usually have lots of influence in. What's going on that all of a sudden people have only got ears for MacBeth?

We are friends! What game is he playing here?

I've always been a loyal support to him, I thought we trusted one another.

I just can't believe this. Sorry, I'm going to have to go outside and walk around for a bit. I want to have it out with him but I know I need to calm down and think about it. Can I phone you later – say 6ish? I'd really appreciate your advice.

Hope your day's going better!!

Alison.